New Student Orientation (<https://www.admissions.txst.edu/admitted-students/nso.html>) (NSO) is required for all students attending Texas State University. Students who have not attended Texas State for one long semester (Fall or Spring) will be required to both reapply to the university and complete new NSO sessions. NSO takes place before each term as a means of providing just-in-time information regarding student support services, class scheduling, and other university resources. Signing up for NSO is required before advising and registration can occur.
